You Are' Jar

Positive affirmations are a really good way to start a home learning session...or diffuse a tricky one!
There are lots of ways to make one. The easiest way is to write some on a sheet, cut up and pop in a jar or box.
If you're short on inspiration google 'positive affirmations for children' and you'll get free printables.
Children also like to contribute their ideas

Simply ask the child to pick out a note. Take some time to discuss what it means to each of you and why it's important.

These lolly sticks by @growingthroughplay are a nice alternative

I am loved ♡

I am special.

I CAN DO ANYTHING!

Today will be great.

I am kind.

I am awesome!

Coin Roll

(great for dexterity, fine motor development, hand-eye coordination...)

Using a variety of round coins, challenge your child to roll the coins on their end. How far can they roll them? Which coins rolls the farthest? Bigger or smaller coins?

If your child is struggling to get the coin to roll, you can make this easier by using a range of lids and tapes instead.

You could extend this game further by giving your child a target to aim for, such as a line of tape or circle of paper on the floor.

RAINBOW RING TOSS!

Build some towers with lego or duplo (or use loo roll tubes)

Twist some pipe
cleaners together (about 3) and join to make a hoop.

Try and get your hoops over your towers!

Masking Tape Track

All you need for this really simple but effective activity is a roll of masking tape, a space and some wheeled toys. Make a track with your tape (dont forget to include some twists and turns).

Play!

This activity is for you to find out which colours you can find outside your home. How many colours can you find? Can you stick them down in order from lightest to darkest? Which object is the lightest? What about the darkest?

Noughts and Crosses

Think of some new ideas for a noughts and crosses game.

This one uses pebbles and wood but you could use bottle tops or lids.

Or paint some 'o's and 'x's on pebbles.

How to Play Kim's Game:

- Collect 5 or more objects with your child.
- Hide them under a tea towel or cloth.

- Remove 1 object without showing your child.
- Reveal the objects that are left and ask your child to guess which object has been taken.

Find things that smell!

You will need : a pestle and mortar!

Collect things from the garden (leaves, flowers etc), spend a few minutes breaking them down with the pestle and mortar then smell. What do they smell like? Do they still smell when they've dried out? Try in the kitchen if you can spare some spices!
